COMPETENT teachers are wanted at Lexington.

There are eight new cases of small-pox in the jail at Indianapolis.

COL. R. M. KELLY, has been re-appointed pension agent at Louisville.

The National House of Representatives has passed the Greeley Relief Expedition bill.

One hundred and thirteen members of the Iowa Legislature only four were born in the State.

The Senate Committee on Military Affairs have reported back favorably the bill for the relief of Gen. Fitz John Porter.

The Pennsylvania Republican Convention will meet in Harrisburg, April 16th, and the Democratic Convention in Allentown, April 19th.

COMMISSIONER DAVIS, of the Pension Bureau, recommends that wounded private soldiers be paid as much as officers who suffer like disabilities.

ELI H. MURRAY, U. S. Marshal in the District of Kentucky from 1859 to 1875, and now Governor of Utah, is being investigated as to his official conduct while Marshal.

The House Committee on Postoffices and Post-roads agreed to report favorably the bill of Representative Bingham fixing the rate of postage at one cent for three ounces on newspapers and periodicals when sent by others than the publisher or news agents.

The Louisville Commercial says: "Small-pox developments continue to increase with alarming rapidity. At present the disease is confined to the lower classes. Many of the patients have no homes and wander about the streets until they are overtaken by the ambulance and conveyed to the Erie Hospital."

The bill introduced in the House by Gen. Sloan limits the time of prosecuting claims against the Government arising from the late war (with the exception of pension claims), two years from its passage. Claims heretofore accrued must be presented within six years of the event from which they originate.

The youngest member of the present House of Representatives is the Hon. George A. Post, of Pennsylvania, who, curiously enough, comes from the district that gave a former House its youngest member in the person of G. W. A. Grow. Messrs. Grow and Post, too, both entered Congress at the same time age—twenty-eight.

"The great longevity which we see in some animals is due to the fact that their growth is extremely slow," remarks a scientific lecturer. "The growth of the young man on farms have their choice of good hours and a long life at home, or higher wages but larger expenses, late hours, and such a living life in the city as will make them prematurely bald and weakly."

To Build a Tobacco Shed.

The following in answer to an inquiry about building tobacco sheds is given by the Baltimore (N. Y.) Gazette: "We would say there various ways to build and ventilate a shed, each one having some merit. Probably the best, in the best way, is the latest Pennsylvania shed, which is constructed on the following general plan: In the first place a cellar is built under the whole shed, the walls being built so that the first floor of the shed will be a trifle over three feet above the ground. Part of the cellar is divided off and a floor put down to be used as a stripping and assorting room. The rest is used as a damp and dark cellar in which the tobacco is hung after being taken down from the poles. This puts it in a splendid condition for stripping."

The shed is built on these cellar walls, with a doorway at either end, to drive in and out of. Ventilators are placed on the roof of the shed, one two, or three, according to the size of the shed. At the bottom of the shed, on all sides, doors, three feet wide, open from the floor, the hinges being placed on the upper end of the doors swinging up. These doors are never less than three feet apart. Then, between the tiers, there are small doors, ten inches wide, hung in the same manner.

In addition to the ventilators on the roof, frequently ventilators are placed in the gables also. These ventilators above and also the upper doors, are controlled from below by means of cords and pulleys. These doors between the tiers are only open on very close and sultry days, when there is danger of "burn."

The wide opening at the bottom (below where any of the tobacco is hung, so that the wind can not whip it and damage it) with the ventilators on the roof, give an excellent circulation of air through the entire shed, a better and more uniform temperature is kept, and the tobacco cures down with a better color, and the shed is much easier to handle.

This describes, in a very general way, what is considered, in Pennsylvania, the best and most practical shed for the cure of tobacco. The putting of the tobacco in a damp cellar, after it is taken down from the poles, keeps it in fine condition for handling at any and all times.

WICKED WOMAN'S WILES.

HOW SHE RUINED A FOOLISH YOUTH

Read Scrape a Decent Young German Got Into by Yielding to the Blarney of an Ancient Woman.

ATBURN, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Francis Joseph Petrosky was put on trial here yesterday for the murder of Mrs. Frothingham. The prisoner is a handsome Prussian youth, twenty-two, and during the progress of the trial his young wife sat by his side. On the evening of Jan. 1st last, Andrew Frothingham, a well-to-do laborer, returned from work to his home and found the mangled corpse of his wife. The woman's head had been beaten in. Twenty-two cuts were found. The next morning Petrosky presented to the bank-book of Martin Frothingham, son of the murdered woman at the bank in Albany. The cashier had read of the murder, and Petrosky arrested. In court last evening he told the story of the crime.

Two years ago he went to board with Frothingham, who had made a fortune. He left the city and married a pretty German girl, to whom he had been engaged. Shortly afterward he received a letter from Mrs. Frothingham, begging him to visit her, and promising money to pay his passage. He concluded to see his mistress for the last time. He met her at Syracuse, and for three days they lived together at her hotel. Afterward he called at her house on the day of the murder. She begged him to stay until Frothingham went to work, and he could spend the afternoon with her. He never declined and went away, but returned after her husband had left. The woman removed her apron, and in a moment, urging him to go with her to the West. He would not do this, being her husband's enemy, but he had no money, and confessing that he was married. This enraged her, and she made a last-act kiss. He drew a revolver to defend himself, but being a powerful woman, she overpowered him, took his pistol, and pointing it at him, said: "Why should I kill you if you are married to another? If we can not live together you shall die with me." He seized a hatchet and struck her down, leaving the body where it lay. He took the first train to Albany, where he presented the bank-book found in the pocket of an overcoat he had taken. His arrest followed.

The case is creating much excitement here.

Ohio Legislature Proceedings.

The Judiciary Committee reported in the House against Bruce's Libel Bill, recommending indefinite postponement.

Mr. Bruce then moved for an engrossed third reading.

This brought out a discussion, in which Allen O. Meyers, Seth Welch and others hammered the bill, and said that the press of Ohio had already too much liberty and swing.

Mr. Cole, of Stark, said that if he passed it would also be to enable homicide to shoot an officer on sight for libel.

Mr. Bruce's motion was defeated and the Committee report to postpone was adopted.

Mr. Burdett's bill authorizing the Cleveland City Council to transfer the Scott law surplus to the sinking fund, was passed.

A QUÉER CASE.

A Boston Jeweler Requests to Be Arrested as an Embodiment.

Boston, Jan. 23.—T. E. Perome, who was arrested in Chicago Monday at his own request, as an embodiment, was a well-known jeweler here previous to 1882. A number of his creditors here speak well of him and say that he did nothing to do with his arrest. Up to a short time before his departure from this city, on the 9th of this month, he was a very busy and successful man, and appeared to be doing a good business.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Dorome, the Boston jeweler who surrendered to the police, self accused of crime, has been accredited insane. The Boston authorities were communicated with, and telegraphed back that Dorome's friends were anxiously inquiring about him. The police here were instructed to see that he wanted for nothing. Dorome said he had a wife and child living in Boston. He says as soon as released he will go direct to Boston, as he is confident he has now succeeded in erasing those men who have been following him. He left Boston to go to Framingham three weeks ago. Dorome followed him, and, hoping to avoid them, he went as far West as Ogden, Utah. At Chicago he purchased some tea, a can of condensed milk, bread, a kettle, and a ham, and with this he remained in a box-car six days. He says he has no wife, but is very anxious to see his little girl. A telegram from Utah states that he spent a great deal of money while there.

A QUEER CEREMONY.

Burying an Empty Coffin in Honor of DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—A large crowd attended the requiem mass at a Catholic church in Derrybig Tuesday morning, for the repose of the soul of Patrick O'Donnell, the slayer of Clara. A funeral procession was formed, headed by a horse containing an empty coffin, in which there was a plate bearing the name of Patrick O'Donnell, his age and the date of his death, etc. The coffin was carried into the church by six pall bearers, and placed on a catafalque in front of the altar, and regular services were performed. After the ceremonies at the church, the procession was re-formed and the empty coffin was conveyed to the cemetery, where it was buried with all the solemnity the remains of O'Donnell would have received had they been there, the people praying, etc. A subscription for a monument to O'Donnell was started, and 435 were subscribed. A vote of thanks to Victor Hugo and his associates in the O'Donnell case was unanimously carried.

To one and all we now suggest,
As on the season rolls,
If you can knock peddlers down
With advertising tools,
A bit of information, too,
We give by way of boot,
Is the longest pole of all,
Is sure to reach the fruit.

The mercury stood at ten degrees below zero this morning.

The wires are out of order and hence no telegram from Frankfort today.

The street cars had a rough time yesterday but they were equal to the emergency.

Mr. S. R. Brooks has retired from the firm of Brooks & Parker and is succeeded by Mr. C. C. Hopper of Maysville.

Mr. A. B. GREENWOOD, has sold his residence on Poplar Avenue, East Maysville, to Mr. F. M. Tolle of Germantown, for $3,000.

The oysters at the Sunday school supper at Chester to-night and to-morrow night will be served under the direction of Mr. T. J. Nolin.

A number of our citizens who own valuable hunting dogs have sent them out of town in anticipation of their "removal" by the city council.

JUDAS JOHN G. MORRISON, who died at Georgetown, Ky., on the 20th, inst., was born in Adams County, Ohio, in 1810, and at one time lived in this city.

This meeting at the East Maysville Chapel continues with increasing interest. There have been five additions in the last three nights. Preaching again to-night.

Mr. J. B. MARVIN, U. S. Revenue Agent, was here yesterday for the purpose of examining the office of W. B. Phister, Deputy Revenue Collector. He pronounced the office first class in every respect.

Rev. F. J. CURP, who has been in Maysville for a day or two, left this morning for Harrodsburg, Ky., to fill Rev. H. A. Tupper's pulpit, in order that he may continue the protracted meeting at the Baptist Church in this city.

DURING the recent fire at Mr. Wilson Richeson's grocery store and dwelling, a quantity of wearing apparel, silversware and a diamond ear ring were stolen. His loss on this account alone amounted to about $400. He desires the Bulletin to return his thanks to the fire company and to the citizens who assisted during the conflagration.

This meeting at the Baptist Church continues with increasing interest. Over twenty additions have been made up to this time. Rev. H. A. Tupper will continue till some time during the next week, when Rev. R. B. Garrett, of Carlisle, will come to his assistance and continue the meeting as long as it may be deemed advisable.

The will of Mrs. M. E. Thomas, who died at Lexington, on the 19th inst., was produced at the County Court, held on the 23rd inst., and admitted to record. Under the will Mr. W. W. White, of Lexington, was appointed trustee to manage the estate for the benefit of Mrs. Thomas' two minor children until they reach the ages of twenty-one years, and was not required to give security for the trust. Mr. White, and Mrs. E. B. White, his wife, were also appointed by the will guardians of the children. In the county Court Mr. White, as executor of the will, was required to give security, and Miss Martha A. Thomas, as will be seen by the proceedings of the court, printed elsewhere, was appointed guardian of the children.

County Court.

At a court held January 23rd, an instrument of writing bearing date January 18, 1884, purporting to be the last will and testament of Mary E. Thomas, deceased, was produced, filed and proved by the oaths of Wm. Williamson and D. B. Felsner, the two subscribing witnesses thereto and admitted to record as such.

Adjourned until January 24th.

On motion of Martha A. Thomas it was ordered that she be appointed guardian of Mary C. Thomas and Joseph B. Thomas, minors, under fourteen years of age, to which Thomas W. White, nominated as testamentary guardian under the will of Mary E. Thomas, deceased, mother of said minors, excepts. Thereupon Martha A. Thomas took the oath prescribed by law and executed bond with Mary E. Thomas, Newton Cooper and Thomas Kew as sureties.

An account of $20 for necessary books presented by W. W. Ball was approved and ordered to be certified to the Auditor for payment.

A Few Words on Funerals.

The custom of remaining at the grave until it is filled up and the mound is formed which is so common here, is one that should be honored far more in the breach than the observance. In the leading cemeteries of the East it has been abandoned for a considerable period. The skilled employees of the cemetery perform the task, and nothing is done beyond the lowering of the coffin and the case-lid until the funeral procession has left the ground or retired to the carriages. The advantages of this method are manifold. Many additional funerals have been caused by the former custom. It is pitiable to see delicate ladies standing in the bleak winds that are almost always sweeping through the cemetery in winter, shivering with cold and contracting disease. It should be remembered, also, that, when under stress of the nervous excitement attending funeral occasions, the physical form is especially liable to suffer from unaccustomed exposure. The ordeal at such time is cruel in the extreme.

But, in addition to this, the culmination of the horror that surrounds death is reached when the clogs rattle down upon the coffin that contains the form we love. Who has not felt at such a time as though every cold were striking upon the heart? There is some excuse, perhaps, in the rule of the cemetery in the country where the hands of friends must perform, complete the rites of burial and courtesy seems to require that the mourners shall recognize their kindness by remaining. Even this is questionable, but in the city's well-appointed cemetery, with its paid employees, there can be no reason and no excuse for adding horror to horror.

We sincerely hope that our ministers and undertakers will co-operate in making of a thorough reform in this matter. Let all the services be at the house or church, except a very few brief services commencing with body and spirit to the grave and to God. These uttered, then lower the body down gently and reverently to its final resting place, and turn quietly away to carry no harrowing memories of rattling clogs or shovelled earth. Our accomplished undertakers will attend better than any other to the placing of flowers upon the mound.

PERSONALS.

Mr. S. S. Miner is still confined to his room by indisposition.

Mr. W. G. McEate, a promising young lawyer at Brookville, died a few days ago.

Mr. Charles S. Miner will leave next week for the East for the purpose of chasing a spring stock of boots and shoes for his firm.

Hon. Jesse Ellis is contemplating moving to Iowa about March.

Captain Lingo is desirous of selling his front Street residence.

Three times in a day (that's not much) 1 1/2 hour good looks are not appreciated by the young ladies.

There was a subscription taken up for the relief of Van Franklin, and we understand our citizens responded very liberally. Van is a worthy object of charity for what else was he an industrious man.

Lead me, I want to hear a young man of the name of Van Franklin. A young man was married of a young lady, and one evening he received a note reading thus:—Dear John, you must call to night. Papa has just got his boots half sold and two rows of locks around the neck. We don't say as will be least guilty this way.

We are glad to hear that so many are seeking the truth of righteousness. There has been some talk of our present condition, and we hope the good work will continue. With Christianity we hope without it all is darkness and desolation. Rev. Whittey deserves great credit for his untiring labors in the interest of his fellow man, and surely his reward will be great in the mighty hereafter.

The snow, the beautiful snow, fell to the most depth of the season on Wednesday and Thursday. While the snow seems to be a most disagreeable feature of winter to some, to others it affords pleasures untold, our hearts are glad and enjoying them, they are reaching to a great extent, while on the other hand, those who are so much circumvented, snow throws an awful pall over a day that is bright and sunny.

I would not like to see a young man who has plenty overtake the trouble to inquire among old settlers to see whether he is suffering or better off than many in this respect. Some of our most considerate church members will tell you that "charity begins at home," so it does, but when you are abundant, help your fellow beings, and in the great day of reckoning the Lord will say, well done thou good and faithful servant, and that for which you have striven you will have gained.

Current Siftings.

The Graphic, having heard that Peck was going to dramatize his "bad boy," advises him "to kill him early in the first act."

"American bars" are everywhere taking the place of wine-shops and even the ordinary cafe in Paris, just as clubs have taken the place of aristocratic cafes.

It is claimed that Lancaster County is the largest producer of tobacco of any County in the United States, the crop of one year brought the snug sum of $3,000,000.

Public salaries and private wages are absurdly low in Switzerland. The President of the Confederation receives only $3,000 a year; few judges get more than $1,000, while the salary is scarcely a bank manager in the whole country who earns twice the latter sum in a year.

It is wise to provide against emergencies that are liable to arise in every family. A cold may be a dangerous thing or not, depending upon the means at hand to combat it. In sudden attacks of cold, croup, asthma, etc., Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will prove the quickest and most effective cure, and your best friend.

George Andrews, overseer in the Local Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell, afflicted with salt rheum in its worst form. His ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

The Prize of Beauty

There have been awarded to Venus if her teeth had been yellow. Fairer mortals, unlike the delusion of fable, have perishable teeth, but these they may retain unimpaired to an advanced age, if they will use nozodont, which keeps the teeth free from impurities which destroy them and renders them objects of admiration. It is pure, refreshing, leaves an agreeable flavor in the mouth, and sweetens the breath. d&w

An Undoubted Blessings

About thirty years ago a prominent physician by the name of Dr. William Hall discovered, or procured after long experimental research, a remedy for diseases of the throat, chest and lungs, which was of such wonderful efficacy that it soon gained a wide reputation in this country. The name of the medicine is Dr. William Hall's Balsam for the lungs, and may be safely relied on as a speedy and sure cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, etc. eod&w
